EDITORIAL NOTES

Woman in the Church

N interesting discussion on the subject of woman's vocation A subject of woman's vocation to the priesthood has been proteeding in various English periodic also, notably in "The Contemporary Review," "The Record." "The TabEnglish Church Review."

The last-anned journal says, "We have seen The Salvation Army particularly commended because in it every office, even the highest, is open to woman. The application to open to woman. The approximents in due course we must be prepared for the enthronement of her Grace

And why not? Why are people And why not? Why are people so slow to accept the results of experience? Why must every section of the religious world toilsomely and painfully proceed along the and paintury proceed along the pathway of opposition, doubt, hesi-fating experiments, and desperate clinging to prejudices and custom, when the admission of women to full participation in the service of God and mankind has been endorsed by unmistakable signs of Divine

Notable Example

N connection with this discussion another journal remarks: "The wife of the Head of The Salvation write of the Head of the Salvation Army, Mrs. Bramwell Booth, is widely known up and down the land as a powerful preacher. A short time ago she necupied the pulpit of the City Temple, one of the first Noncomformist Churches in London and the contraction of the City Temple. lon, and the vast eengregation lis-ened with tense Interest to her

Bimple but eloquent words,
"Mrs. Bramwell Booth was not horn a public woman—home is in her eye, and the garden on her ton-gue—but she has brought them both into her public work, and it is sweeter and more tender for it.

"She was the first woman to sneak in the Cathedral at Bergen, in Nor-way. She is very painstaking in preway, Sue is sery panninging in pre-paring her addresses; it is never a case of 'anything will do.' She has a message to deliver, and she knows how to do it. Much of her preach-ing and speaking, of course, is done in The Salvation Army Citadels,"

Double Standard: Deadly Disease

IN the course of an outspoken editorial under this heading, the Roronto "Globe" attacks the "unpardonable prudery" which pretends to be too pure to hear the ugly facts and the "blasphemous pretext of the libertine that lapses from social libertine that lapses from social chastity are in accord with the law of gature."

The Secretary of the American Navy speaking to the Clinical Surgeons of North America in their Annual Congress at Chicago, stated that "during the last statistical year, men of the American Navy loss 141,473 days through sickness from a small group of absolutely preventable diseases, or rather dis-preventable diseases, or rather dis-eases contracted by sin."

"How infamous," says our con-temporary, "the notion that morals have no part in military discipline!"

"Damnable Heresy"

In turber comment upon the subject, the writer of this wholly commendable article puts into words so exactly the position The Salvation Army takes up with regard to the "double standard" that we make no apology for quoting fully:—"This doornies of the double standard".

dard of morals is what the New dard of morals is what the New Testament would call a 'dammable heresy.' And in Toronto, during every week of every year, that soc-ial heresy is illustrated in the most shocking and most disheartening manner. Men whose family connec-tions are good and whose social standing has been unassailed, but whose blood is tainted and whose whose blood is talked and whose touch is diseased as the touch of a leper, men who are known to their fellows in business and at the club to be patrous of houses of ill-repute. and known by their physiciaus to be rotten through and through with venereal disease—such men are in-vited to social functions; but, the vited to social functions; but, the woman of the street, whose reputa-tion is just a little soiled because she was this very man's partner in the House of the Lapsed, were she to draw near, the holy sisters would slam the social door, and cry,

"Life is too stern, realities are too real, for men as surely as for women. The double standard must women. The double standard must go. The man who is a libertine must pay the social penalty, as surely and as inexorably as the woman who is a harlot. The deadly disease is no respector of either sex."

The Old Question

HEREWITHAL shall a young man cleanse his way?"
asked the Psalmist. How characteristic of the eternal applicability of Scripture is the reply. "By taking heed thereto according to Thy word."

This was before the clays of the New Covenant; it was good counsel then, but how much more so now, when through the grace given in and manifested by the Saviour who has come, such a radical change of heart may be wrought that the cleansing of his ways is within reach of the pilest sinner not as a slow and long process, but as an imme-diate, instantaneous purification.

And the New Answer

Not long after the guns had second to some the Commanding Officer of the local Corps was on the scene, and among the first he res-ened were a little boy and girl who had been robbed of their mother by had been robbed of their mother by a bomb; their father was just being taken to a hospital. The Captain hurried to his Quarters with the little ones and then hastened back to continue his work. The children were afterwards taken over by Com-missioner Adelaide Cox and safely housed in a Salvation Army Home.

housed in a Salvation Army Home. Not many hours later the Divisional Commander sent a dozen Officers into the district. These quickly learned that many people were homeless, and, because the gas main had been broken, there was no opportunity of providing hot food, even in the semi-habitable houses. Colonel Laurie, of the Blet's Scéal, immediately offered not only to feed all the people in the street, if necessary, but also to shel-ter as many as needed such aid. One of his Officers proceeded to the local Town Hall, where he tound a relief committee discussing what to do for the people, and he laid the Colonel's offer before them. It was gratefully accented.

Hot Soup for Children

In a very short time a wagon lad-en with boilers containing hot-soup was in the street, to be quickly sur-rounded by hungry children. These were seated on the kerbstones and rounded by hungry children. These were seated on the kerbstones and regaled with soup and bread, while Officers took meat sandwiches and tea round to the houses for the wo-men and what few men were at home. At tea-time bread and but-ter, bread and jam, cake, and tea were liberally distributed. This has been continued daily, many hun-

SPIRITUAL MANHOOD Daily Readings

By Mrs. Staneba Johnson

Paul's Letter to the Colossians differs from the former epistles we have considered, in that he had not personally known them. His knowledge of their religious life had been brought to him through others (chapters 1:9; 2:1). He seems to have had serious anxieties about them, and sets forth very specifically the fundamentals of the Christian' hope and assurance (chapters 1-27)

There was a surious sauss for the Apostle's misgivings and fears for the Church at Collosse (now called Chonas). For though the new religion had taken root and spread with gion had taken root and spread with rapidity, there was a speculative form of philosophy enrient which threatened to undermine the funda-mental fife of the baby Church (chapter 2, verse 14).

This philosophy was a form of theosophy which sought to find demoniac or angelic powers of intermediatory hetween the Supreme God and humanity. They tried to express the new Christian ideas in the old forms understood and current in Asia at the time.

Pani saw great danger to the newly-founded religion and there-fore utters a strong warning to them: not to be carried away "by the traditions of men and not after Christ" (2:8).

. He seems to have feared that they would be influenced by the Oriental trend of thought about them, and misunderstand the meaning of the real personality of Christ. They so confused the doctrine of His human and Divine individuality, either limiting Him to the human only, or, on the other, hand, counting Him among the angels. It was difficult for them as for

It was difficult for them, as for many people since, to understand the dual (or twofold) personality of the Son of God. In the first chapter Paul is most emphasic as to the Divinity of Christ (1:13, 14, 16). And to ns, as well as these first Christians, groping their way throught all the mysticism of the through all the mysticism of the Easter, seaching with which they had to cooteod, comes the clarion note, "He is before all things." This, truth cannot he too strongly accentuated in these twentieth century days of questionings and doubts, of diffiration teachings, and many forms of secretical speculation.

The whole letter sets a standard of faith, love, service, and general spiritual attainment for each stud-

Spiritual Day with Cadets

Conducted by Commissioner Richards-The Great Secret of Success-Chief Secretary and Other Officers Assist in Helpful Three Sessions at the Training College

THE Cadets now in Training at "precentor" to, great advantage, the Toronto College enjoyed Never did orthodox precentor, how their first "Spiritual Day" on Friday ever, out such vim and stir into his of last week. We say "enjoyed" adrisedly: word of mouth and looks abundantly testified it was a day of iov. of that real, satisfactory joy which is the result of victories won and definite progress made in spiritual experience,

The Commissioner was in charge, and to him was mainly due, humanly speaking, the great helpfulness of the day's sessions, for upon the full book of his own Salvation Army career, he based a series of addresses which touched upon so many cides of an Officer's life than nothing likely to be helpful to the Caders seemed to be missed.

The great secret of all success in their new eareer was, the Commissigner pointed one and unforced with all the wealth of language and illustration he could command, 10 have a passion for the Saluation of souls, and this was also the only object for which it was worth while losing everything.

With the Commissioner was Mrs. With the Commissioner was arrs, Richards, whose principal contribu-tion to the day's high endeavour was an address in which she strove was an address in which she strove to encurate those now starting out to be Officers by affirming that God throughout her own easeer had never failed her. She had never which never failed her. She had never which difficulties, had been assailed by temptation, and had passed through 'unners.' but had always been brought out on the bright side, the better for the experience. The Chief Secretary acted as leading of singing, or get so much into or out of his singers-new choruses, old words to new tunes, and blessing-fraught, memory-stir-

MUSICAL FESTIVAL

Given in Toronto Temple in Aid of the League of Mercy.

COMMISSIONER RICHARDS PRESTRE

A spleudidly-rendered Festival of Music and song, in which three Sands and two Sougeter Brigader took part, was presided over by the Commissioner at the Toronto Commissioner at the Toronto Temple on Thursday, Oct. 18th. The building was well Blied, and evrey one seemed delighted with the ex-cellent programme. The object for which the Festival

The object for which the Pestival had been organized was the helping of the League of Mercy, and in his grayer at the commencement of the meeting the Chief Secretary asked God's blessing on the work of this League. The Commissioner gave a brief review of what the League had done during the past year. The follow-ing figures indicate in what direction the energies of its workers are espended:-

Hospital picetings held__ People visited 18,670
People prayed with 8847
"War Crys" distributed 36,323
Conversions recorded 137

The Commissioner warmly praised the devoted workers of the League, who gave their time, talents, symMrs. Major Moore, the Superin-tendent of the League, expressed her heartfett thanks to all who had helped to make the Festival a success, and appealed for generous het to enable the workers to continue, and extend their work of love and increy. One needy case she men-tioned had entailed an expendintre of ten dollars, and the League was only supported by voluntary contributions.

A Scripture portion was read by Mrs. Colonel McMillan.

As regards the Festival we cannot particularize and comment on each iteo. Suffice it to say that each coorbination did its very best and that two hours' pure and unalloyed detwo nours' pire and unalloyed de-light was furnished to the audience. The Bands taking part were the Territorial Staff Band, Dovercourt, and the Temple. The Songster Bri-gades were furnished by Dovercourt and the Temple. The Staff Band and the Temple. The Statt Band Male Choir also song. Worthy of special note was the fine playing by the Massed Bands of "The Vesper Hymn," also the sing-ing of the "Peace" selection by the Dovercount. Songsters, which afforded abundant scope for the many fine soloists that Brigade seems to possess. The last item was a quartette with The last item was a quartette with soprano obligato, "Savions, hreathean evening blessing," and was a very fitting climax to a programme of cottrely Salvation Army selections, marches, and songs.

The Christmas War Cry A PAPER .. WITH AN IDEA

Immanuel...." God With Us"

Underlying the whole of the beautiful pictures, the helpful articles, the interesting identifications of Salvation Warfare, the reports "from the front," the entrancing stories and good music and poetry which make up our Christmas Number for 1917 is the idea expressed in the above line—it is a record of God's good and gracious Presence with mankind.

It Will Please the Eye, Interest the Mind, and Help the Soul

OUR SPECIAL PICTURES AND ART SECTION

Printed in four colours and on coated paper which, notwithstanding the shortage of supplies, is the same as that previously used,

The FRONT COVER is made specially attractive by a design which embodies THREE BEAU. TIFUL PICTURES.

The BACK COVER bears a three-colour picture by a Canadian artist, depicting A SALVA-TION MEETING IN A LUMBER CAMP.

"True to Life" is the verdiet of various Officers who have first-hand knowledge of this work and to whom the picture was submitted before it was placed in the hands of our etchers.

"THE GENERAL PROCLAIMS SALVA-TION FOR ALL"—A three-colour painting from life by The Army's leading artist, W. J. Gibbs, showing our Leader addressing a great audience in the course of one of his Theatre Campaigns.

"MY DADDY'S CAP"—"Isn't it just ente?" is the remark made by most of the people who have seen this picture. It is a three-colour production that does credit to the Toronto artist

"LIFE-SAVING SCOUTS AND GUARDS ON DUTY" —A two-colour page showing (1) A Scout stopping a runaway, (2) Scouts gardening for a soldler's wife and children, and (3) Guards doing a real good Christmas "turn."

The rest of the Art Section, printed in the rich sepia tone ink, contains:--

(f) Some beautiful seenes from "Where Tesus Lived." (2) A Page of PORTRAITS OF "OUR WOMEN WARRIORS." The first of a series which it is intended to continue in our special issues.

(3) "THE SHADOW OF THE CROSS." a fine art reproduction of a famous picture, sometimes known as "The Dream of the Child Jesus."

of the Child Jesus."

(4) "SERVING THE OTHER ARMY"—A Page of Photos which show how widespread is the provision made by The Salvation Army for the boys oversea.

(5) "TROPHIES FROM ZULULAND"—Giving portraits before and after conversion of Adjutant Matuniwa a woman comrade.

Comrade.

(S) VETERAN FIELD OFFICERS—Portraits of twenty-two Comrades who are well known at the scores of Corps which they have commanded.

GLORY BE TO GOD!

Reports of the Congresses already held in East and West tell of gracious outpourings of the Holy Spirit. Courseles who have seen many congresses declare none have exceeded those of 1917 for spiritual blessing.
